

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The disk is connected to the server appliance via the network. The server appliance accessing the disk for storing the data is changed to change the server appliance processing the data. Here, the change of the server appliance for processing the data is simultaneously reflected to the setting of the service provided by the computer system.